Can Black-Draught Help Physical Fatigue?

Yes, Black-Draught may help physical fatigue if the only reason you have that listless feeling is because of constipation. The Highest Award in Railroad Safety

EDWARD H. HARRIMAN MEMORIAL MEDAL
AWARDED BY THE MUSEUM OF AMERICAN SAFETY
NORFOLK AND WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY
CLASS A RAILROADS
FOR THE UTMOST PROGRESS IN SAFETY AND ACCIDENT PREVENTION

FOR THE FOURTH TIME

The Norfolk and Western Railway this week was awarded the coveted Harriman Memorial Gold Medal for making the outstanding safety record among the large Class I railroads of the United States in 1947.

The N. & W. and its 23,000 employees are sincerely proud of this high honor. They are doubly proud of their record of progress in safety and accident prevention, because it has made this a safer railroad on which to work, a safer railroad on which to travel, and a safer railroad on which to ship.

Winning the Harriman Medal in 1947 — in 1940 — in 1938 — and in 1926 — did not "just happen" to the N. & W. These safety achievements are the results of many years of practical, intensive safety education, the employees' belief in and practice of safety, and their cooperation with one another and with the management, plus sound operating methods and the investment of millions of dollars in a consistent program of modernization for a safer transportation plant.

To the Norfolk and Western and its employees, safety is the first law of good railroading. Therefore, winning the highest award in railroad safety is another stepping stone for members of the Norfolk and Western Family to greater progress in safety — an inspiration to work harder to make this a better and safer railroad for its employees and the public they serve.

During the ten years, 1938-1947, inclusive, the N. & W. carried 29,810,817 passengers a total of 4,167,112,620 passenger miles without a single fatality to a passenger in a train accident. In employee safety, during the same period, the casualty rate was 4.25 per million man-hours worked, which was 60% below the national average. Since 1912, progress in accident prevention on the N. & W. has resulted in saving 1,199 employees' lives and the prevention of 47,266 employee injuries.
